REAL ESTATE SENSATION,

What Mr. Copp Says of the Remarkable Boom at West End Park, The remarkable success attending the sale of lots in West End Park at Rockville has been the talk of real estate circles during the past week. A Carric reporter called on Mr. Henry N. Copp at his office, No. 706 Eighth street northwest, and had

he following futerview :

Reporter-How did you become interested in Metropolitan Branch real estate?

Mr. Copp—One sweltering hot day in the summer of 1884 Mr. Aldis B. Browne of the law firm of Britton & Gray came into the attorneys' room of the General Land Office, where I was sitting, and, in effect, said: "I wish there was a cool, comfortable place near Washington, where men compelled to pass the summer in town could spend the nights with their families. At present I can see my folks only from Saturday nighto Monday morning and must endure the discomforts of this hot weather, day and night, for the balance of the week." I aid to myself: "This is a big idon." On making inquiry I learned that the highest, coolest, most accessible region about Washington was the part of Montgomery County, Md., adjacent to the Metropolitan Branch. Soon thereafter I took a ride to Rockville and footed my way back along the railroad nearly to the District line, and was delighted with the country and the advantages for suburban residence it presented. As soon as possible I purchased some land near Rock Creek and organized some syndicates. The Garrett Park Company I as sisted in forming, and 500 acres were "Last spring Dr. R. B. Detrick and I purchased from the trustees of the Rockville Academy the Julius West farm, coutaining 183 acres, a considerable portion of which is within the incorporate limits of the town of Rockville. This farm has been subdivided and is now the West End Park. The title is unimpeachable and an abstract was made by Hon. Philip D. Laird, on whose recommendation we purchased. The tract has been in the possession of the trustees of Rockville Academy and Julius West for more than forty years, and was inherited from the father of Julius West." Reporter-Do you now own the West End Park alone or are others interested Mr. Copp-Alone. I bought Dr. Detrick's interest at a liberal advance, and am now sole owner. Last fall I decided to sell slowly, and only to builders, reserving every other two lots, but financial matters have taken such a turn with me that I lately concluded to make a grand rush at popular prices. You observe the result. Reporter—What class of people are represented among your purchasers? Mr. Copp-I am surprised at the many conservative, experienced business men and real estate operators who have purchased. I am especially proud of the fact that Noble D. Larner and Henry O. Towles have purchased lots and are urging their friends to buy. My purchasers represent the several professions, prominent official people and the best classes in the commupity. Cast your eye on this list and you will notice the names of many well-known said:

Aimighty God, who by the Commandments and example of our Lord Jesus Christ hast inclined us in the exercise of charity to all them who are sick or are in prison, we implore Thy mercy on the men ho have lifted up the hands of violence and blood in the presence of justice and in the very home of order, and who are the one in the bondage of pain and the other of the law. Grant unto them deep contrition of heart and trae repentance of sin, that they may obtain a sure trust in Thy mercy and the comfort of Thy pardon. And, oh! God, Thou who knowest the secrets of all our hearts, whether we ourselves are inwardly better than those we condemn, have said: wardly better than those we condemn, have mercy on us. Keep us from the occasion and opportunity of evil and from the ways of sinful shame. Let no pride or self-seeking, no covetousness or revenge, no improper imagination or base passion or improper imagination or base passion or violent temper pollute our soul or degrade our words or actions.

The House passed bill 6099, to increase the pension of Elmer A. Snow of M Troop, Third United States Cavalry, for loss of both hands, from $72 to $100. Also House bill 4495, to increase the pension of Thomas Riley of L Troop, Seventh United States Cayalry, from $72 to $190.

The House then took up Senate bill 1359, to create the office of Assistant Secretary of War at a salary of $4,500. Passed by a vote of 126 to 100. During announcement of the vote Mr. Burrows said he had voted on another's name nadvertently, and also when his own name was called. One vote, he thought, was enough. The record was accord-ingly corrected.

Mr. Houk of Tennessee called up the

The House decided—yeas, 133; nays, 132—in favor of consideration.

The opening speech in favor of the claims of the contestant was made by Mr. Haugen of Wisconsin, and, at the conclusion of his speech, Mr. Outh-waite of Ohio took the floor, but, in view of the small attendance of members, moved an adjournment, which motion was agreed to-yeas, 114; Among the bills introduced were the following: By Mr. Bergen (N. J.), to increase the appropriation for the public building at Camden, N. J., to $100,000.

By Mr. Gest (Ill.), to pension disabled soldiers, who are without proof of the origin of their disability.

By Mr. Milliken (Me.), extending twelve months the time in which spoliation claims may be filed.

The Postal Telegraph Proposition. Dr. Norvin Green, president of the Western Union Telegraph Company yesterday continued his statement respecting the pending Postal Telegraph bill before the House Committee on Pestoffices and Post Roads. He said he had seen it stated that the wires on the Pacific Railroad lines belonged to the Government. He did not so understand it, and, as a matter of fact, the Government had no power to fix rates over those lines. The last formidable Western Union was the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Telegraph Company. That had started in to smash things, and it had done it. That company had ruined three competing companies, had ruined itself, and had so nearly ruined the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company that it had been obliged to sell its sleeping cars and construction shops to tide over the finan-

The sub-committee of the House World's Fair Committee had a meeting yesterday. All the members, Chairman Candler and Messrs. Hitt and Springer, were present. They took the general bill previously agreed on by the whole committee as a basis, and went over it carefully in detail. The bill they will report to the committee, and which the mittee will probably report to the House the latter part of next week, will be substantially the bill the committee had already agreed on as in the main suitable for either New York, St. Louis or Chicago.

On one or two occasions in this city and elsewhere the newspapers hinted that the starts were not as fair as they might have been, and sometimes the public mumbled out its dissatisfaction, but no one thought of questioning the supremacy of Messrs. He found his man at Mflier's store, and when he stated his husiness Grebe put his hand in his overcast pocket, turned it toward his body and shot himself. He fell to the floor with the blood gushing from a great hole in his side.

The police patrol was summoned and the man was carried to the Emergency Hospital. He was afterward transferred to the Garfield Hospital. The physicians there say that the wound is a very dangerous one and may prove fatal. They fear that hemorrhage may set in, and in that case he has a very small chance for life.

Postmaster-General Wannmaker was the principal witness, and his examina-tion was as to Commissioner Roosevelt's protege, Mr. Shidy, and his appointment to a clerkship in the Postoffice Department, Mr. Wanamaker was questioned minutely, but nothing of importance beyond what has already been made public was de-veloped. Civil Service Commissioner Roosevelt was also put on the stand and asked a great many questions about his pretege's appointment. He said that it was not that Mr. Shidy was so bad that he recommended his appointment. Mr. Shidy, he said, was not one of those actively engaged in falsifying the records, but he was the one who told the Commission of the crooked work meath, and after a cheerful conversation with his family redired. At 10 o'clock he was selzed with a chill. This passed off, but an Sunday morning an aggravated case of pneumonia develope 1.

PHILADELPHIA, March 1 -Among the many improvements the Penusyl vania Railroad Company contemplate on their New York line is the elevation of their tracks in Jersey City, where a handsome station is to be constructed and the passengers landed on the second floor. Without descending to the Chicago, March I .- Secretary Brunnell of the Players' National League said tonight, with reference to the Washington and There is not one word of truth in the stories about transferring the Buffalo Players' League team to Washington. I have assurance from the Buffalo officials that they have received no propositions and ground level, they will proceed directly to the ferries. The latter will be reconstructed or replaced with new boats, which will be double decked. On the New York side of the river pa will be landed on the upper floor of the ferry house on the same level as the bridge spanning West street, which has its obligations to the new League, has not had a desertion and has shown no sign of weakness. It is a partner in first-class sanding. There are good reasons why Washington can have no place in our League. The principal one is that we have four Eastern cities, all stronger than Washington. I do not think that the board of directors of the Players' League would over covered to the principal. All these improvements have already been arranged for, and within two years at the outside will be realities Several schemes are now being pushed for the shortening of the route to New York for fast trains. For some time past the completion of a through four ine route from Philadelphia to Jersey City has been proceeding, and there now only a short space in the neighbor-bood of Elizabeth where there are fewer tracks than four. It is said that when the work is finished the time between the termini will be not more than ninety minutes, while the ferry trips will be accelerated by the construction of new

Dempsey and LaBlanche, SAN FRANCISCO, March 1.-Jack Dempsey, much to the surprise of a large majority of the sporting frater-nity, has telegraphed from Portland that he declines George LaBlanche's terms for a return match on the grounds that they were entirely too one sided. He says the Marine's saloon is not worth over $1,000, much less $10,000, and that he would not accept it as a gift. Dempsey says however that he is willing to make many concessions to LaBlanche, but does not like the proposition of putting up $5,000 against the saloon, which, he declares, is a resort for San Francisco's worst element.
